

HELLENIC REPUBLIC

UNIVERSITY OF MACEDONIA

1st Summer Academy in European Studies and Human Rights Law 26-30 August 2016

Έργο UNESCO Διεπιστημονικής Πολιτικής
για μια Δραστήρια και Αλληλέγγυα Ιθαγένεια
Πανεπιστήμιο Μακεδονίας, Θεσσαλονίκη

Summer School

“Protection of Human Rights in Europe” organized by

the UNESCO Chair at the University of Macedonia

Thessaloniki, Greece

Conference Room – University of Macedonia

The International Summer School on the “Protection of Human Rights in Europe” aims to advance participants’ understanding of the significance of human rights protection at the international and the European level. This Summer School offers comprehensive, in-depth knowledge of the theoretical and practical application of measures and practices concerning Human Rights.

The Summer School offers to all participants a unique opportunity to meet multi-disciplinary faculty from Greek and EU Universities. The Summer School is held in the city of Thessaloniki, Greece.

The city was founded in 315 BC by Cassander, King of Macedon in honor of his wife princess Thessaloniki, half-sister of Alexander the Great.

Thessaloniki is the second major economic, industrial, commercial and political centre in Greece. The city was announced “Cultural Capital of Europe” for 1997 and “Youth Capital of Europe” for 2014.

Thessaloniki is home to numerous notable Ancient Greek, Roman, Paleochristian and Byzantine monuments, 18 of which constitute a UNESCO World Heritage Site, as well as several Ottoman and Sephardic Jewish structures. The trademark of the city is “the White tower” which is a monument and museum on the waterfront of the city.

The Summer School is organized by the UNESCO Chair on "Intercultural Policy for an Active Citizenship and Solidarity" at the University of Macedonia. The Academic Director of the Summer School is Assistant Professor Despina Anagnostopoulou, Director of the UNESCO Chair at the University of Macedonia, and academic coordinator of the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence at the same University.

The programme is addressed to:

- University students of graduate and undergraduate level.
- Public officials working in human rights institutions at national, regional or international level.
- Lawyers, judges, social and political scientists, and other professionals from non-governmental organizations and think-tanks who wish to enhance their skills and knowledge in the field of human rights protection.

The academic programme consists of five thematic cycles:

Cycle 1
Universal and Regional Mechanisms for Human Rights
Protection

Cycle 2
European Convention on Human Rights

Cycle 3
EU Fundamental Rights and protection of personal data

Cycle 4
Non-discrimination, with emphasis on LGBT rights

Cycle 5
Refugees,
Minorities,
Groups,
Cultural Rights

The whole Summer School will last 5 days (5 nights) corresponding to 40 teaching hours. It will host a maximum of 35 participants from Greece and abroad. Courses will be taught in English by a highly specialized faculty of Greek and European Universities.

A Certificate of Attendance will be issued to all participants.

A Certificate of Graduation with 3 Extracurricular ECTS will be awarded to those passing a multiple choice examination at the end of the Summer School.

Our methodology is based on the combination of theoretical lectures with practical “real-world” skill training. The courses are intended to be interactive, with faculty and participants establishing a constructive working dialogue. The programme includes an experiential workshop on intercultural skills.

The courses will provide in-depth knowledge in a broad range of thematic areas, such as:

- Protection of Fundamental Rights in Europe and the world
- Fundamental Rights in the European Union
- European Convention on the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (ECHR)
- Judicial Rights and the Right to Asylum
- Freedom of expression
- Personal data protection
- Non-discrimination in Europe - LGBT Rights
- Cultural Rights, ethnic minorities and religion
- Intercultural skills

Thessaloniki is home to a number of prominent archaeological sites, such as:
The Roman forum featuring two-storey stoas, two Roman baths and an amphitheater.
The imperial palace complex of Roman Emperor Galerius, located at Navarinou Square. The large octagonal portion of the complex, most of which survives to this day, is believed to have been an imperial throne room.
The Arch of Galerius known colloquially as the Kamara. The arch was built to commemorate the emperor's campaigns against the Persians.
The Archaeological Museum of Thessaloniki and the Vergina Museum in Pella include many exhibits from Ancient Greece.

The University of Macedonia is located in Thessaloniki, Macedonia, Greece. It is the second largest university in the city. It currently consists of eight departments which deal mainly with social, political and economic sciences (Economics, Business Administration, International and European Studies, Accounting and Finance, Balkan, Slavic and Eastern Studies, Music Sciences and Arts, Educational and Social Policy and Applied Informatics). The campus is made up of a group of buildings with a total area of approximately 40.000 square meters, consisting of amphitheatres, teaching and conference rooms, computer rooms, offices, patios, a library, a restaurant, a cafeteria, a gymnasium and a book-store. The University has a main auditorium that is one of the most contemporary conference centers with international standards and also hosts important cultural events of the city. There is free wi-fi everywhere.
The summer school will take place at the air-conditioned fully equipped Conference Room, on the first floor of the University of Macedonia, Egnatia Street 156, Thessaloniki.

Things to remember: Please bring your notebook or tablet with you. There is free wi-fi.
The course will take place in the afternoon from 14.30 – 21.30 on Friday and Monday except of the Saturday from 10.30-18.30 and Sunday 15.00-21.45.

International and Regional Protection of Human Rights - The example of Refugees (P. Naskou Perraki)

The module will provide an overview of the international conventions and mechanisms of Protection of Human Rights in the framework of the UN: a) The UN System (UN Charter, UN institutions, e.g. the Human Rights Council, the High Commissioner on Human Rights, and UNESCO), b) The UN Covenants (1966), and c) The UN Conventions on Human Rights (CERD, CEDAW etc.).

It will also present international conventions at the regional level in the framework of the Organisation of American States (ACHR), the Council of Europe (ECHR), the African Union (ACHRP) and the Arab League (ACHR).

Special attention will be given to the UN Geneva Convention on the Status of Refugees (1951), the UN High Commission on Refugees and the current refugee crisis.

European Convention of Human Rights – Right to fair trial and right to asylum (D. Rajska)

The module will analyse two ECHR rights: a) The right to fair trial (art. 6 of ECHR), as a basic principle of the rule of law and a prerequisite of the effective implementation of other ECHR rights. There will be an analysis of the ECtHR case-law standards, including the right of access to court and right to decision within a reasonable time. Its specific applicability in education, employment and tax disputes or use of modern technologies in judiciary will also be covered. b) The right to asylum is not expressly protected as such within the ECHR. However, a number of key provisions of the ECHR provide protection for asylum seekers (Articles 3, 5, 8 and 13 on prohibition of torture, the right to liberty and security, respect for family and private life, right to an effective remedy) and Article 2 of Protocol No. 4 on freedom of movement). There will be an analysis of the case law of the ECtHR on individual applications of asylum seekers.

Personal Data Protection in Europe (E. Alexandropoulou)

The continuous increase in processing personal data constitutes a challenge for the legislator, who has to find a balance between the individual's right to privacy/personal data protection and other human rights, e.g. the right to information, the right to public security, the right of free expression. The abovementioned mission of the legislator presupposes legislative choices that are translated into legal rules. These legal regulations, both at international and at national level, give rise to the obligations of the data processor, and to the relative rights of the data subject. The main obligations of the controller are to monitor the processing principles, to obtain the consent of the data subject, to notify the data processing to the competent national Authority, and to take the appropriate technical and organizational measures for data protection. The lecture focuses on a brief presentation of the European and Greek regulatory framework in force, which is aimed at assuring personal data protection, including a suggested legitimacy test.

Freedom of Expression (I. Papadopoulos)

This module will examine, in a comparative manner and with the aid of judicial materials, the law pertaining to freedom of expression in the context of the European Convention on Human Rights (article 10) and of the USA Bill of Rights (First Amendment to the Federal Constitution). In both Europe and North America, freedom of expression plays a central part in the overall system of protection of fundamental rights, since without a broad guarantee of the right to free speech, the other rights do not enjoy a "breathing space", and there is no real democracy nor rule of law. The module will focus on: a) Freedom of political speech and its limits (notably hate speech and defamation), b) Freedom of the media and protection of journalistic sources, c) Protection of commercial speech, d) National security and public safety as legitimate restrictions to the exercise of freedom of speech. After attending this module, students shall have a precise theoretical knowledge of the legal status quo in the ECHR and the USA regarding the underlying philosophy and several ramifications of the freedom of expression, and will have studied and discussed practical cases in groups.

The Non-Discrimination legislation and case law in ECtHR and EUCJ (D. Anagnostopoulou)

This module will describe the rights to non-discrimination at the international level (international Covenants and Conventions) and the European level (ECHR and EU legislation and case law). Special focus will be given to the Directives 2000/43 and 2000/78 and to their interpretation by the EUCJ. It will analyse the grounds of discrimination because of nationality, color, race, religion, invalidity and age.

The Charter of Fundamental Rights (L. Papadopoulou)

This module will analyse the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU (2000-2009) and will discuss issues such as:

- a) Its normativity and its application by the Court of Justice of the European Union,
- b) Categories of fundamental rights included in the Charter
- c) Social rights and their normative value
- d) The 'horizontal' clauses: relationship with the protection of rights at national level
- e) The EU and the European Convention of Human Rights: relevant case law and the issue of the Union's accession to the Convention.
- f) the relation between the case law of the Court of Justice of the European Union and the case law of the European Court of Human Rights.

Cultural rights in Europe (N. Gaitenidis)

Cultural Rights are the least developed category of the human rights corpus, concerning their scope, legal content and enforceability. This is partly due to the difficulty of the understanding of the very term 'culture'. The aim of the course is to offer an accurate and critical insight to cultural rights. Cultural rights can be understood in a narrow sense (such as the right to take part in cultural life) and in a broad sense (rights which have a cultural dimension, such as the right to freedom of expression and religion and the right to education). The course will explore the main legal instruments (agreements, declarations, conventions, etc.) and the legal development on what is meant by cultural rights in international and European level. During the course, three categories of cultural rights as human rights will be presented: a) the rights of creators and transmitters of culture, b) the rights to enjoy cultural products and c) the rights to contribute and participate in culture.

LGBT Rights in Europe (A. Tryfonidou)

This module will seek to provide a detailed analysis of the protection of the rights of sexual minorities (in particular, LGBT persons) in Europe. In particular, it will examine – taking a chronological approach – how the two supranational institutions in Europe at which rights are claimed (i.e. the EU and the Council of Europe) have responded to the claims of LGBT persons for protection of their rights. Apart from an analysis of the judgments of the courts of these two institutions where LGBT rights were claimed, there will be an examination of other documents (e.g. European Parliament reports, EU Fundamental Rights Agency surveys or reports, Council of Europe Committee of Ministers recommendations), where guidelines, suggestions, or proposals regarding the protection of LGBT rights were laid down. The module will aim to provide a comparison between the approaches of the EU and the Council of Europe towards the protection of LGBT rights, and to explain the reasons behind any differences between them.

Minorities, indigenous peoples and groups: human rights and identity (N. Gaitenidis)

The participants will explore how human rights are to be perceived in the light of the growing cultural diversity of European societies. As European societies are becoming more diverse in a variety of ethnic, religious, cultural or other backgrounds, individuals and communities invoke human rights to protect interests in relation to their cultural identity. Cultural identity provides individuals and communities with a sense of belonging. As such, it is a vital element of their human dignity. On the other hand, culture may also harm people or constrain their development. The course will explore contemporary dilemmas arising from the two sides of human rights protection: on one side, the individual and the right to be different and, on the other side, the common values of Europe. The specific situation of minorities and indigenous peoples will be examined by taking into account the contemporary debates between the theories of universalism and cultural relativism as well as the theory of group rights.

Workshop on “Intercultural competences in counseling vulnerable social groups” (I. Papavasileiou-Alexiou)

The workshop aims to give the participants knowledge, skills and attitudes that are necessary when counseling/educating people from vulnerable social groups (e.g. refugees, immigrants, individuals with disabilities, ex-prisoners, ex-drug addicted, etc). Apart from its informative character, the workshop involves important experiential components too. It will include a) Intercultural communication, such as difficulties in intercultural communication, the 'cultural shock', and participatory experiential activities, b) Intercultural Counseling, e.g. skills and techniques in intercultural counseling, and participatory experiential activities, and c) the Intercultural counselor/educator emphasizing the professional profile of the intercultural educator, and participatory experiential activities.

Extra-curricular activities and events

We have planned the following optional low cost activities for our participants:
Friday 26 August: White Tower visit and cruise-tour with the café-boat (Elli) at the “Nea Paralia”.

Saturday 27 August: Lunch at “Tiganies and Schares” and Dinner at the famous “Ladadika” area at the city center.

Sunday 28 August: Morning excursion to a nearby beach of Halkidiki by bus (10 euros)

Monday 29 August: Morning tour at the most important sightseeing sites in Thessaloniki and optional lunch at the beautiful “Athonos square”.

Tuesday 30 August: Last night! Let's go out together!

Photos of Thessaloniki!

Dagmara Rajska

She is a Council of Europe Expert and Trainer of Legal Professionals in Serbia, Kosovo, Moldova and Montenegro. She is also the Director of the Business and Human Rights Program of the European Human Rights Association. She has a Master on European public law (Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński University in Warsaw, Faculty of law) and a Master Research on European public law (Aix-Marseille University, Faculty of law). In 2013 she was awarded summa cum laude a Double doctorate in law (Aix-Marseille University/Cardinal Stephan Wyszyński in Warsaw). Her PhD thesis entitled "Right to fair trial in France and in Poland" was published in 2015. She is a member of many national and international law organizations, for example French Association of Constitutional Law, International Association of Constitutional Law and the France-Poland Association. In 2015 she was ranked fifth in the ranking - Rising Stars 2015 - Lawyers of Tomorrow (5th place out of 30 nominated lawyers) organized by Wolters Kluwer.

Alina Tryfonidou

She is an Associate Professor in EU Law at the School of Law, University of Reading. Before joining the University of Reading in 2011, she was a Lecturer in Law at the University of Leicester (2007-2011) and a Visiting Lecturer at King's College London (2005-2007 and 2010-11). Dr Tryfonidou obtained her LLB (2001), LLM (2002) and PhD (2008) from King's College London and is an Associate of King's College (AKC) (2008). She is a non-practising member of the Cyprus Bar since 2003, a Fellow of the Centre of European Law at King's College London since 2007, and an Associate Fellow of the Higher Education Academy since 2010. Dr Tryfonidou's main research interests are in the area of EU law and, in particular, EU free movement law, Union citizenship, and the protection of LGBT rights.

Eugenia Alexandropoulou-Egyptiadou

Prof. Eugenia Alexandropoulou-Egyptiadou, former Deputy Rector of the University of Macedonia (Thessaloniki, Greece), is Professor in I.T. Law at the Department of Applied Informatics, founder of the I.T. Law Scientific Group, www.itlaw.uom.gr and Director of the postgraduate Program (Master) in "Law and Informatics". A former attorney at law at the Greek Supreme Court, she headed the Legal Department of Egnatia Bank in Northern Greece. She was also a member of the editorial board of the Law Review "Harmenopoulos", edited by the Bar of Thessaloniki. She has written and/or edited numerous scientific articles and books in the area of Civil, European, Banking, Labour, International and IT Law. In recent years her interests have focused mainly on personal data protection, human rights and intellectual property in the Information Society. She has acted as organizer, chair person and speaker in several International and Pan-Hellenic Conferences on Information Law and Ethics, reviewed numerous papers and dissertations and participates in many Scientific Associations.

Paroula Naskou Perraki

She is a former Professor of International Law and International Organizations at the University of Macedonia (1994-2014). She has also served at the School of Law of Democritus University of Thrace (1974-1993) and as Secretary of the Board of the Center of International and European Economic Law (1997-2007). She was awarded an Honorary Doctorate from the School of Law and History of the Neophyt Risky University of Blagoevgrad (Bulgaria, 2003). She was a visiting professor at the School of Law of the Capital University (Columbus, Ohio, 2001, 2009 & 2011), as well as coordinator and lecturer at the Summer Schools of Capital University in Thessaloniki (1998-2005). She has also taught at the National School of Judges, Greece (1998-2005). She was representative of Greece at the EU-China Dialogue on Human rights and at the Iran-EU Dialogue on Human Rights (2003-2004). She is the former Director of the UNESCO Chair on Intercultural Policy at the University of Macedonia (2004-2014) and the organizer of the Thessaloniki International Student Model United Nations at the same University (2004-2014), for which she was awarded by the United Nations the title of the «Friend of the United Nations» (2007).

Ioannis Papadopoulos

Assistant Professor at the University of Macedonia (Thessaloniki, Greece) and a Visiting Professor at the University Panthéon-Sorbonne Paris 1 and Sciences Po (Paris, France). He holds a PhD in Law, a Master in Legal Philosophy, and a Master in Public Law from the University Panthéon-Assas Paris 2, as well as a Law Degree from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. His fields of interest include European policies, political and legal philosophy, and comparative constitutional law and human rights. He has published, alone or with other co-authors, five books and over forty-five articles in French, American, British, Italian, and Belgian scholarly journals, chapters in collective books, papers in conference proceedings, and working papers. One of his books, written with Antoine Garapon, Juger en Amérique et en France. Culture juridique française et common law, has won two awards, has been translated in two international languages, and is widely considered as a book of reference in comparative legal and political cultures. He is the editor of a special issue of the peer-reviewed scientific journal International Journal of Diplomacy and Economy.

Ioanna Papavasiliou-Alexiou

She is an Assistant Professor in Guidance and Counselling at the Department of Educational and Social Policy, University of Macedonia, Greece. She graduated from the Philosophical School of Athens (1987). She obtained a PhD in Guidance and Counselling by the University of Heidelberg in Germany, Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences (1996). Her thesis on "Preparing Youth for Occupational Choice in the Federal Republic of Germany and Greece: A Comparative Study", was published by Peter Lang Verlag. She was also a Visiting Research Fellow at Teachers College of Columbia University, New York (September 1995-April 1996). During her studies she was a scholar of the Greek Scholarships Foundation (1990-1993) and of the University of Heidelberg (1994-1995). She was Head of the Research Department of the Organisation for Vocational Education and Training in Athens (1998-2000). She worked as a researcher at the Centre for the Greek Language in Thessaloniki, and participated in the development and implementation of many research projects (2002-2006). She was a Tutor in the Greek Open University, Graduate Studies in Adult Education (2003-2012). Her research interests focus at Lifelong Guidance and Counseling, career and professional development, Career Management Skills and vocational inclusion of vulnerable groups. She offers career courses in under- and postgraduate University programs.

Lina Papadopoulou

She is an associate professor of constitutional law, and holder of a Jean Monnet Chair for European Constitutional Law and Culture, at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki (AUTH), Greece. She studied Law at AUTH (Bachelor 1993), Trier (LLM 1994) and Hannover (PhD 1998), and Political Theory at the London School of Economics (LSE, MSc 1999). She was a Post-doc 'Marie Curie' Fellow at the LSE (2000-2001) and A.U.Th. (2001/02). Her primary areas of expertise include national, comparative and European constitutional issues and human rights, equality and non-discrimination, religion and the state, and bioethical issues (MAR. euthanasia etc).

Despina Anagnostopoulou

She is an Assistant Professor in EU Policies and Institutions at the Department of International and European Studies, University of Macedonia. She is Jean Monnet Chairholder, Director of the UNESCO Chair, and Academic Coordinator of the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence at the University of Macedonia. She studied law at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, EU Law at Free University of Brussels-ULB, and had her PhD from the University of Thrace with Professor and EU Judge K. Ioannou. She obtained undergraduate and postgraduate state scholarships, a Jean Monnet EUI 3-month scholarship in Florence and a distinction for her contribution in national matters awarded by the University of Thrace. She has been stagiaire at the Legal Service of the EU Commission and selected to travel to Japan. She has been Researcher at the Centre of International and European Economic Law (Thessaloniki), as Dimitrios Evrigenis scholar, for 3 years, and as senior researcher for more than 10 years. She taught EU Law in 30-hour courses: a) at the Law School of Capital University, Ohio, US (one course), b) in American summer schools in Greece (6 years), and c) at the National School of Judges (6 years).

Nikos Gaitenidis

He is the head of the Observatory for Constitutional Values of the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence at the University of Macedonia and a research associate of the UNESCO Chair at the University of Macedonia. He also provides research services for the Centre of International and European Economic Law. He holds a BA in International and European, Economic and Political Studies (University of Macedonia), an MA in European Law (Law School of Athens) and a PhD from the Department of International and European Studies (University of Macedonia). His PhD research focused on the promotion and protection of cultural diversity in the European Union. His research interests and respective publications focus on the EU and international protection of human rights, citizenship rights, identity politics, minority rights, group rights, culture and law, equality and non discrimination. He is a committed lifelong learner.

Despina Antonopoulou - administrative coordinator

She is a graduate of the Department of International and European Studies of the University of Macedonia and she holds a Masters Degree in European Youth Policies by the same Department. She has experience in administrative support of educational programmes, as well as in statistical analysis and data collection. She worked as qualified scientific personnel at the office of a Greek MP and at the Human Resources Department of a private company. During her studies, she worked as a helpdesk agent for the Hellenic Organisation of Telecommunications. She speaks English, Italian, Arabic (basic) and French (basic).

Application

Application deadline: August 22, 2016

You can find the application form at <http://afroditi.uom.gr/seminars/> and <http://afroditi.uom.gr/jmc/?p=2143>.

Please complete your application form in English and submit it by email at danag@uom.gr or desantonop@gmail.com

Admission requirements

A good knowledge of English and the demonstration of a strong interest in the topics of EU are preconditions for a successful application.

Confirmation

Stage 1: Once you have submitted your application you will receive a confirmation e-mail from us that you have been accepted.

Stage 2: Once you complete the payment you will receive an e-mail confirming your payment.

Stage 3: You can make your own travel arrangements only when we confirm to you by email that the minimum number of registrations has been attained.

Cancellation policy

You may cancel your participation up to August 19. In the unlikely event that WE cancel the summer school, the money transferred will be returned.

Expenses for account bank transfers will not be reimbursed in any case.

Payment

Payment may be made in one or two equal instalments by August 22, by bank transfer in the name of the Company of Development and Management of the Property of the University of Macedonia to the Bank of Pireus, Greece, IBAN: GR 520172 2020 0052 0201 4396 560.

Scholarships

The Summer School will be able to provide two scholarships under the condition that there are at least 20 registrations, and the applicants demonstrate high academic record and proof of economic inability. The scholarship covers only the tuition fee.

You may pay in 12 instalments by credit card only if you come to our University in Thessaloniki.

Information for participants

ECTS

For those that pass the multiple choice exam at the end of the programme 3 Extracurricular ECTS will be granted by the University of Macedonia.

Cost of the Programme

The tuition fee is 250 euros.

Students at Greek Universities have a special offer of 200 euros. A reduction 10% is granted for groups of 2 participants (e.g. 225 euros for professionals and 180 euros for students.

You may pay in 12 monthly instalments by credit card if you come to our office at the University at Egnatia Street, Thessaloniki!

Tuition fees include:

- All handouts (sent by email)
- Coffee breaks and light lunch
- Examinations
- Certificates

The fees do not include:

A. Travel and insurance costs

B. Accommodation

We can suggest hotels that have offered us special prices for the summer school or assist you in reserving a double or triple room with another participant.

C. Optional activities of our social event programme

There will be a special price for each of our social events. You just need to tell us what you want in advance

D. Meals and dinners

During the lectures there will be coffee breaks and light lunch.

E. Trips to the peninsula of Halkidiki or the islands of Skiathos, or Skopelos or Alonissos, by catamaran from Thessaloniki port.

F. Personal expenses

For registration and information please contact:

danag@uom.gr

desantonop@gmail.com

+30 2310 891 442

+30 6906 762 857